

<http://cuseclothesline.blogspot.com/>

Prom dresses for a good cause

April 8, 2008

Donatemydress.org just launched it's new website. It's mission - donate your old prom dress or pick up a prom dress. Prom is such a meaningful time in young women's lives, but it can also be really expensive. So the mission of this organization is to provide dresses to young women who cannot afford them. Other local organizations have done this before, but according to Donatemydress' website they are the first national organization to bring all of the local organization's together.

The website features touching and inspirational stories about girls experience with Donatemydress and how much it helped them have a good time. There are also other fashion and beauty tips.

Donatemydress is almost everywhere across America. In a bus, they travel across the nation holding prom expos and donation centers.

