

DBaker-Baker Blog

<http://dbaker-baker.blogspot.com/2008/04/go-green-while-spring-shopping.html>

Monday, April 7, 2008

Next time you go out to add to your new spring collection of clothing, perhaps take note to the amount that your favorite store has gone in order to offer 'green' clothing. What minimal changes can you make in order to make a difference? As the trend of environmentally friendly clothing latches on to more and more consumers, even the smallest efforts by each individual will become more noticeable.

As Prom season begins to emerge, one organization at donatemydress.org helps consumers become more environmentally friendly. Remember all of those old prom dresses and dresses for occasions that you only wore once, and are now collecting dust in your closet? Well you can help out to make someone's dream come true...simply donate that dress that is just sitting in your closet, and give it to someone who may not be able to afford a dress to prom.