It's the return of the Dish with Lara Spencer! This time she has some gifts for Rachael - and if you hit the giveaway button you have the chance to win four of the items found on today's Dish! Today's dish included DNA 11 - it's artwork from your own DNA chart! You get a kit, swab and place it in an envelope, and you get instant artwork. Since it doesn't hurt to swab - you can even do it with a baby, and use it to decorate the nursery - though it's not cheap at all.

Also - Bobbi Brown's custom Makeup Palette, the Zuca Pro suitcase - the carryon to carry all - and it's even a seat for those inevitable delays. Last but not least, Passion on the Vine by Sergio Esposito, and the t-shirt that's from OmniPeace Fashion, worn by celebs everywhere - and 25% of the profits go to help the hungry in Africa.

Next up, Brittany Snow joins Rachael to promote her new horror movie, Prom Night. Brittany says that her career and choices often change, and she's really looking for characters that are deeper and loves doing so many characters. She loves the intensity of the horror genre, something she's always loved. They talk a bit about Prom Night, of course, and her Prom Night special picture on the cover of Cosmo Girl - despite the fact that she never went to her own prom. She went to her homecoming though, designed her dress and the seamstress on American Dreams made it for her.

They bring this up, because there's a viewer in the front row who talks about the cost of going to prom - she has two of them, her boyfriends and her own since they go to different schools. Samantha says she can't afford her dream dress, so is at a loss over what to wear. Brittany is involved with Donate My Dress. org, and as such donates her dress from her homecoming to Samantha to wear to her prom. Samantha is thrilled, of course, and promises to send pictures from her big night.
